

I think that the Media Ownership rules should be left as is, I see nothing that tells me that the current system is broken. so why fix something that works well for me the end user? I think that if the rules are relaxed the Mega-Media Companies would be apt to provide less and less community service, and more and more, central-ized, "we don't really care about your area" type of coverage.